

Technical Services

“Capita’s Technical Services team have shown themselves to be fully committed to finding staff that meet our specific requirements. They generally know the qualifications and experience we are looking for because they understand our business. We are not sent people just to provide a response to a request.”

Paul Burrige, Project Manager, Serco Skynet 5 FM

Capita has strong roots in social housing and public sector building projects. We have also developed a good reputation as a supplier to the private sector. Delivering outstanding candidates on a temporary, fixed-term or permanent basis, we provide tailored recruitment solutions for local authorities, registered social landlords, property owners, consultancies and engineering/construction contractors.

When you need to source qualified Technical Services professionals, you will be looking for candidates with extremely specialised skill sets. These are not always easy to find, especially since there are skill shortages in many key disciplines, and competition between employers for the best people has increased rapidly over recent years. With more than 17 years sector experience, we are able to source the best candidates across disciplines as varied as building surveying, project management, architecture, building and construction technology, and civil engineering.
